Tonight's Game
Wright State vs.
Otterbein

Three previous home games for the Raiders have resulted in blow outs with sometimes less than spectacular performances from WSU. Otterbein presents a major challenge to the young Raider squad tonight, bringing in a veteran team which advanced to the NCAA Division III semifinals last year.

Wright State comes into tonight's game with a 5-1 record and tied in the series record at 3-3 with the Otterbein Cardinals. Coach Ralph Underhill is hoping that he can maintain a tradition of winning basketball in December.
One that has his Raiders winning 27 of 29 games since 1978-79.

Underhill also is aware that Ohio Conference teams have spelled trouble for the Raiders in the past three years.
Even though WSU is 3-0 against OAC teams, two of those games have been extremely close. WSU was forced into overtime before defeating Capital, 85-81, in 1978-79, and then Otterbein kept things very interesting in a 1979-80 game at the UD Arena before WSU prevailed, 69-65.

Leading the way for the Cardinals is all-American guard Ron Stewart who is averaging 29.4 points per game so far this season. The 5-11 junior displayed his scoring touch in the last meeting with WSU when he pumped in 26 points over a Raider zone defense.

"Stewart could play for a lot of Division I schools around the country," said Underhill. "We were impressed when we saw him in high school and he has continued to improve since then. There's almost no way we can afford to use a zone against a shooter like him."
